

Contents

Foreword	xiii
Acknowledgements	xiv
Cast of Characters	xvi
Introduction	1
In The Beginning3
Who Really Invented Videogames?5
A Matter Of Opinion....And A Little Malice, Maybe?5
Pong's Genesis5
Priorities9
...And Then There's Russell15
Higginbotham's Claim To Fame16
End Note17
Life at Sanders18
September 6th, 1966 - Genesis!	19
Getting Started27
1967 - Early TV Game Development30
Improving TVG Unit # 2 - The "Pump" Chassis39
August 1967 - TVG Unit # 3, Our First "Product" Is Ready!44
November 1967: Ping-Pong Games Are Here!	45
Cable Games	48
Video Quiz Games	49
Back on Track - Building TV Game Unit # 6 And The Brown Box	52
The Brown Box Makes It's Debut	54
Calling All TV Set Manufacturers!	56
1971 - Keeping The Licensing Ball Rolling	58
Making A Maximum Effort In Ft.Wayne	59
Will The Consumer Like Skill-O-Vision?	62
Odyssey Rolls Off The Production Line73
Flashback: Hard Times In The Defense Electronics Business	74
Odyssey Makes Its Entrance!	75
The Birth Of Pong	76
Winter Of 1972-73 - Upgrading Odyssey	85
1973 - Rethinking My Act	88
1974 - Tracking Magnavox	90

I Become A Freelancer	93
Tracking Videogame Activity In The Field - And How Sanders Almost Got Into The Arcade Videogame Manufacturing Business	94
1974: Cable Games Redux	107
Trying To Get Magnavox Into The Arcade Videogame Business And Super Odyssey	110
Interactive Video Systems: Working With WPI And ILG	112
The Ay-3-8500 Chip Saga	115
The Centronics Game Interlude...Beware The Mafia!	121
Monday Nite Football	122
1976 - History Redux	124
1976 - The Lawsuits Start	126
Back To The Magnavox Saga Ca. 1975	133
Salvaging Odyssey ²	134
The Telesketch Story	135
Telesketch Finds A Home At Magnavox	136
A Short Postscript To The Magnavox Support Story - Interactive Video	137
The Coleco Story	138
Coleco's Telstar Is Born - But There Is A Problem	139
We Help Design Coleco's Next-Gen Line	141
Learning To Live With Eric Bromley	142
Leading Coleco Into Interactive Video Territory	143
Coping With Tricky Legal Relationships	143
Dual Image	145
Using Audio Tape Players In Videogames To Get Superior Sound	145
Kid-Vid	146
Pushing New Technology	149
The TV Alarm Clock... And Other Interactive Video Gadgets	149
Promoting Advanced Interactive Video Systems At Coleco	150
Getting Videodisc-Assisted Colecovision Under Way	151
End Game At Hartford	152
Atari And Me	153
Smile, You're On Camera!	155
An Encounter With The Nintendo NES	157
The Nintendo Lawsuit Interlude	159
Interactive Video technology At Sanders - The IVTS Pinball Videogame	161
Another Aside: The Precision Rifle Story	163
1988 - Leaving Sanders... But Not The Videogame And Interactive Video Scene	168

Closing Thoughts About Videogames169

Appendix One: From Touch-Me to Simon 171

Appendix Two: TV Game Chronology174

Appendix Three: A Chronological Summary of My Involvement with Magnavox
(1975-1979)180

Appendix Four: From Our Loose Notes and Note Books - 1966 to 1972 187

Appendix Five: Videogame and Interactive Patents 197

Appendix Six: Schematics and Experiments 221

Appendix Seven: R.H. Baer Firsts in Chronological Order 235

Appendix Eight: My Designs251

Bibliography253

Contributor's Bios255

Index256